Mr. Skinner plays an Italian organ grinder, a gentle optimist, with the soul of a poet and the heart of a knight errant. Mr. Skinner is easily the leading actor of the American stage, and everything he undertakes bears the stamp of an authority that comes from wide experience and deep sympathy. "Mister Antonio" has been described as the most delightful dramatic entertainment of the season.

The Charles Frohman management promises a splendid production and a thoroughly satisfactory cast, the leading actors including Eleanor Woodruff, Joseph Brennan, Robert Harrison, Patterson McNutt, Frances Landy and Agnes Marc. There will be a special matinee Thanksgiving day.

show. For the first time here, Theodore Kosloff's Ballet Russe with Vlasta Maslova and a large corps of ballerinas formerly with the original Diaghelef organization. will appear. The costumes, orchestra and scenery are from the Imperial Theater, Moscow. There are nine numbera, including music of such masters as Grieg, Tschalkowski, Brahms, Delibes, Stravinsky and Rimskv-Korsakoff.

Jack Wilson, the blackface travestist, supported by Lillian Boardman and Frank Hurst, will offer a chapter of ridicule of other acts in the asme bill; Porter J. White and company will present a comic oddity by Oliver White entitled "The Hide-Away." Other attractions include the three Steides brothers, in a musical recital; James B. Donovan, "the King of Ireland," and Marie Lee in "Doing Weil, Thank You", M. and Mme. Alf W. Loyal and their royal poodles; Harper and Marbury in "Fads and Frolics": Donald E. Roberts, "the Strolling Tenor"; the pipe organ recitals and the international news pictorial. Rich Velvet, 57e

There is not a serious thought or suggestion in the entire show. "Mutt and Jeff's Wedding" has been provided with a fitting scenic and costume investiture and the celebrated characters are supported by Minnie Palmer, who will appear as "Lucstie Roundheart."

"The Final Arbiter."

Following its plan, inaugurated this week, of having a dramatic offering of genuine merit in its program of continuous vaudeville, the Cosmos Theater will present next week "The Final Arbiter," by Lawrence Grant. It is a new form of patriotic appeal for preparedness, and received serious and complimentary attention when it was played in New York. The author will appear in the dual role of an American clergyman of strong pacific leanings and as one of the big war monarchs of Europe. The program will also include the Six Harvards, a fine vocal and instrumental sextet, playing brass, string and woodwind instruments; Egerotti's "Act Beautiful," presenting artistic poses of white horses, dogs and hunters; the Dancing De Forrests, in whirlwind acrobatic and Apache dance features; the Clevelands, featuring a corpulent conversationalist in "Still Arguing"; Hughey Blaney, in descriptive songs and stories; Hodge and Howell, in songs, dances and incidental comedies, and the Telegraph Trio, three good singing comedians. The big photoplay will be "The Ocean Waif," featuring Doris Kenyon and Carlyle Blackwell, with the Selig-Tribune and the Pathe news weeklies and cartoon comedies.

"Behman Show."

A new edition of the Behman show one of the foremost attractions on the Columbia circuit, is scheduled for a week's engagement at the Gayety Theater commencing Sunday. Jack Singer, who manages the organization, has obtained a new book by Junie McCree, and has so planned the entertainment that buriesque and vaude-ville are given almost equal prominence throughout the two acts and many scenes. Mr. McCree's book also affords opportunities for the introduction of vaudeville features without in the least disturbing the interest in the narrative. An abundance of witty dialogue and intensely amusing scenes is promised. Among the "headliners" of the company are Martelle, impersonator of female types; Ameta Pymes, whose classic dancing has been one of the show's prominent assets; the Bud Snyder troupe of comedy bicyclists, Wilbur Dobbs, John Cain, Blanche Newcomb, Lucille Manion and Sam Hyams and a large chorus composed of men and women. has obtained a new book by Junie

Cadman and Tsianina, Tomorrow.

Since Nordica introduced and made famous "From the Land of the Skyblue Water" Charles Wakefield Cadman has held high rank as an American song writer. This side of his work is exemplified in the Indian music-talk of which he is sole originator, and which will be presented, with Tsianina Redfeather, at the New National Theater tomorrow at 4:30 p.m.

Teiania Redfeather is not a make-believe Indian, who masquerades in the single accident Kate and second to accept the hospitality of James Weldon, an artist, and it is a case of love at first sight.

Through an automobile accident Kate Turner is forced to accept the hospitality of James Weldon, an artist, and it is a case of love at first sight.

Kate's father, in very poor health, feels that his end is near and confides his financial stress to Allen Perry, a district attorney, who tells the old man that if Kate will marry him he will look out for both her and her sister Marian. The matter is presented to Kate in this light and she consents to the marriage. Perry is insanely jeakous of his young wife and she is very unhappy. Weldon becomes famous. At the suggestion of his assistant, Phillip Grant, Perry takes Kate to the artist to have her portrait made. His suspicions are aroused by the actions of Kate and Weldon as they recognize each other. Tom Weldon, Jim's dissipated cousin, always begging for money, learns that Kate and Jim are old friends and tells Perry. From this the complicated and thing romance proceeds.

Tsiania Redfeather is not a make-believe Indian, who masquerades in leather dress and beaded moccasins when before the public. She is a full-blooded Indian aristocrat, descendant of the famous old-Chief Tecumseh, and she has never (save under compulsion during a few years in the government mission school) worn the garb of the paleface. She has a beautiful voice, guided by an artistic intelligence and trained to expressive ends. In any en-
